

Closing the Gap Report

December 20, 2016

Contents

Week Leading Up To Event - Keywords 3

Week Leading Up To Event - Themes 4

Day Of Event - Keywords 5

Day Of Event - Themes 6

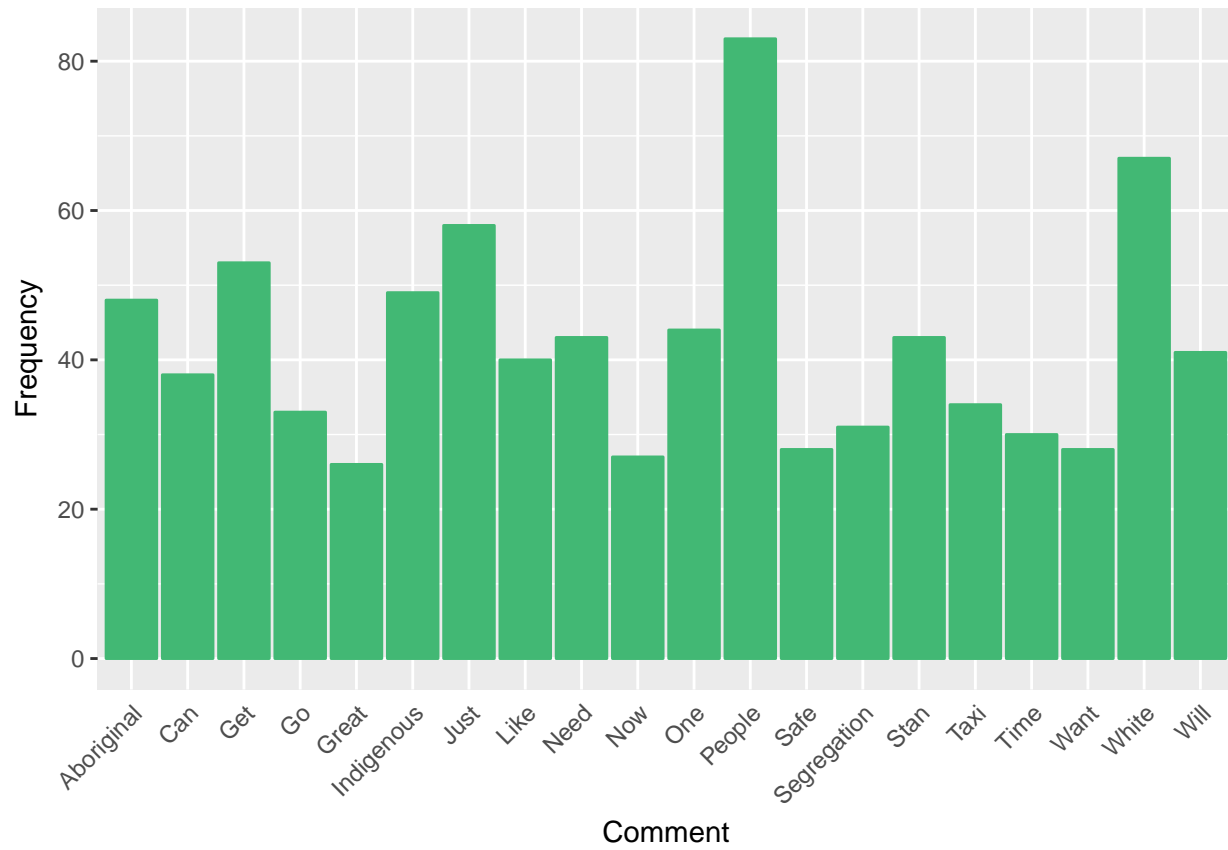

Week After Event - Keywords 7

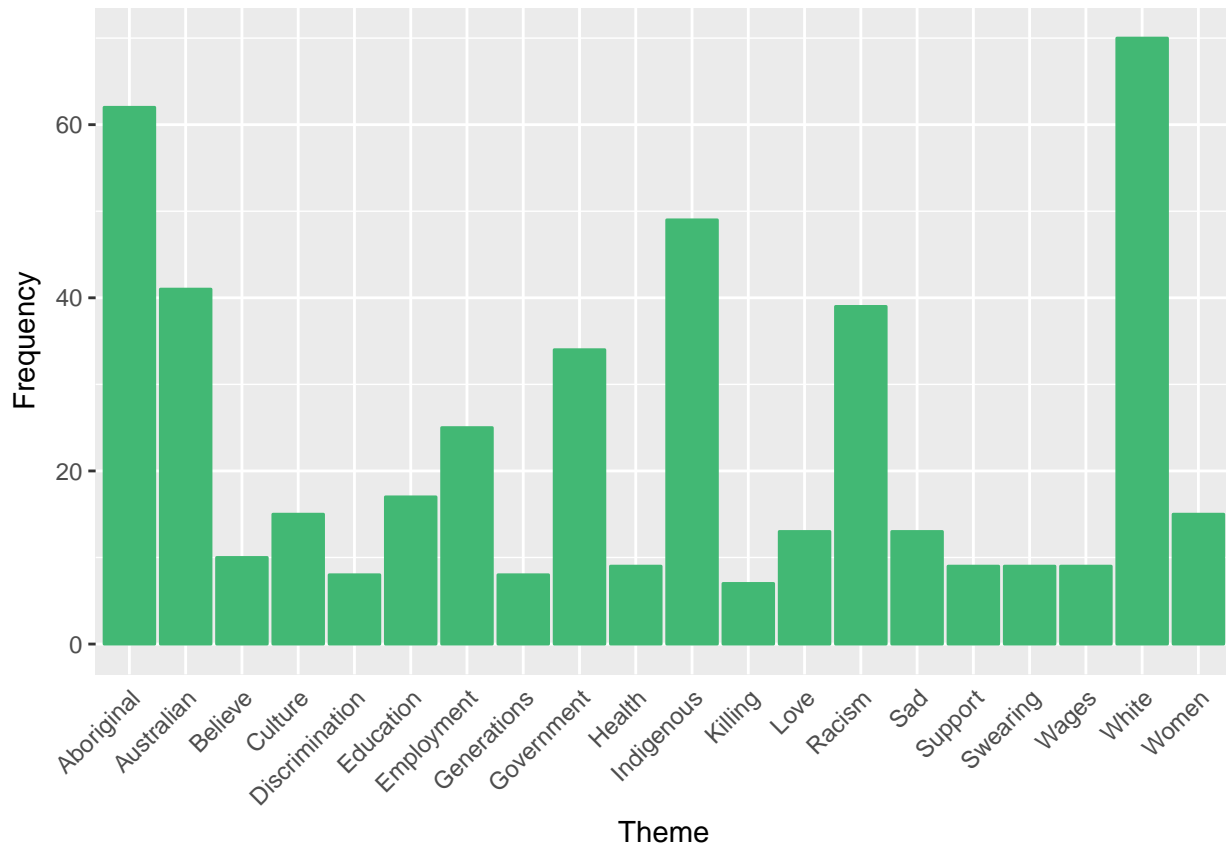

Week After Event - Themes 8

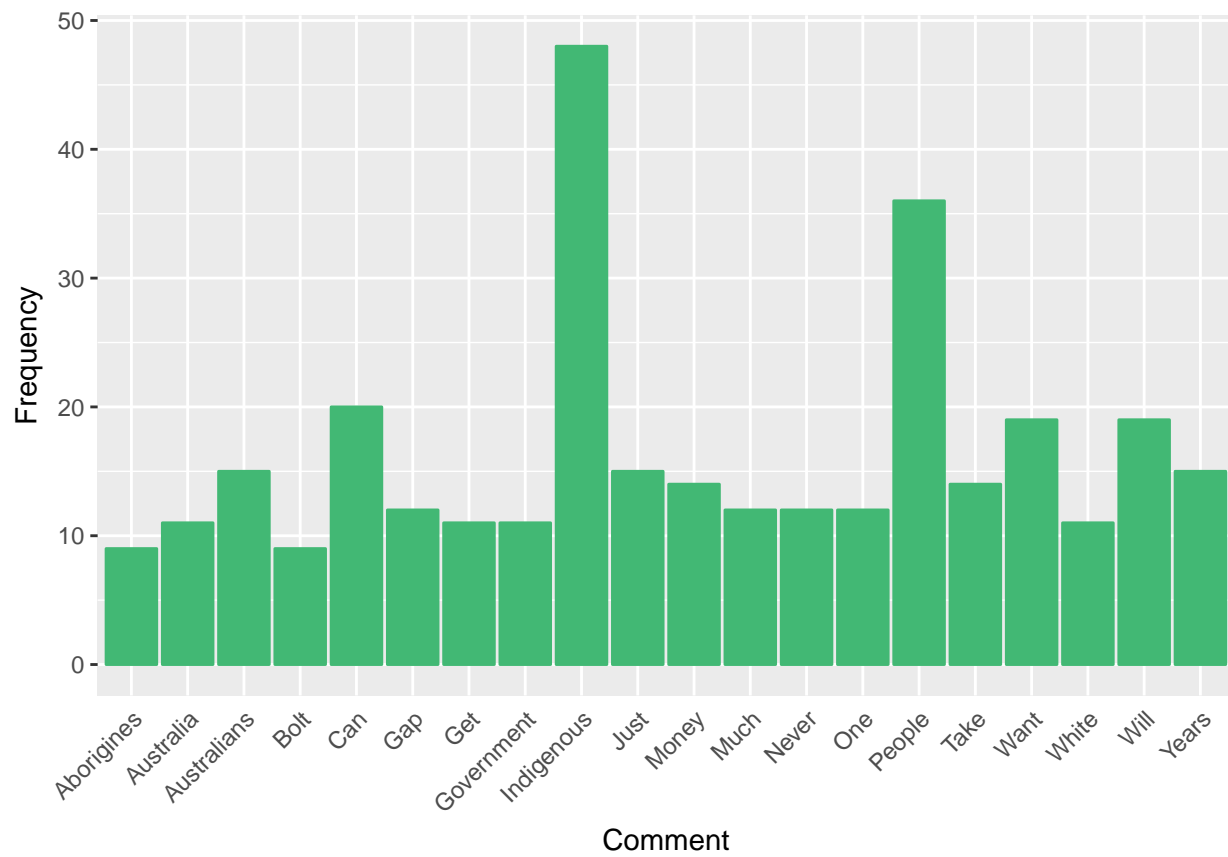

Facebook Activity Over Period 9

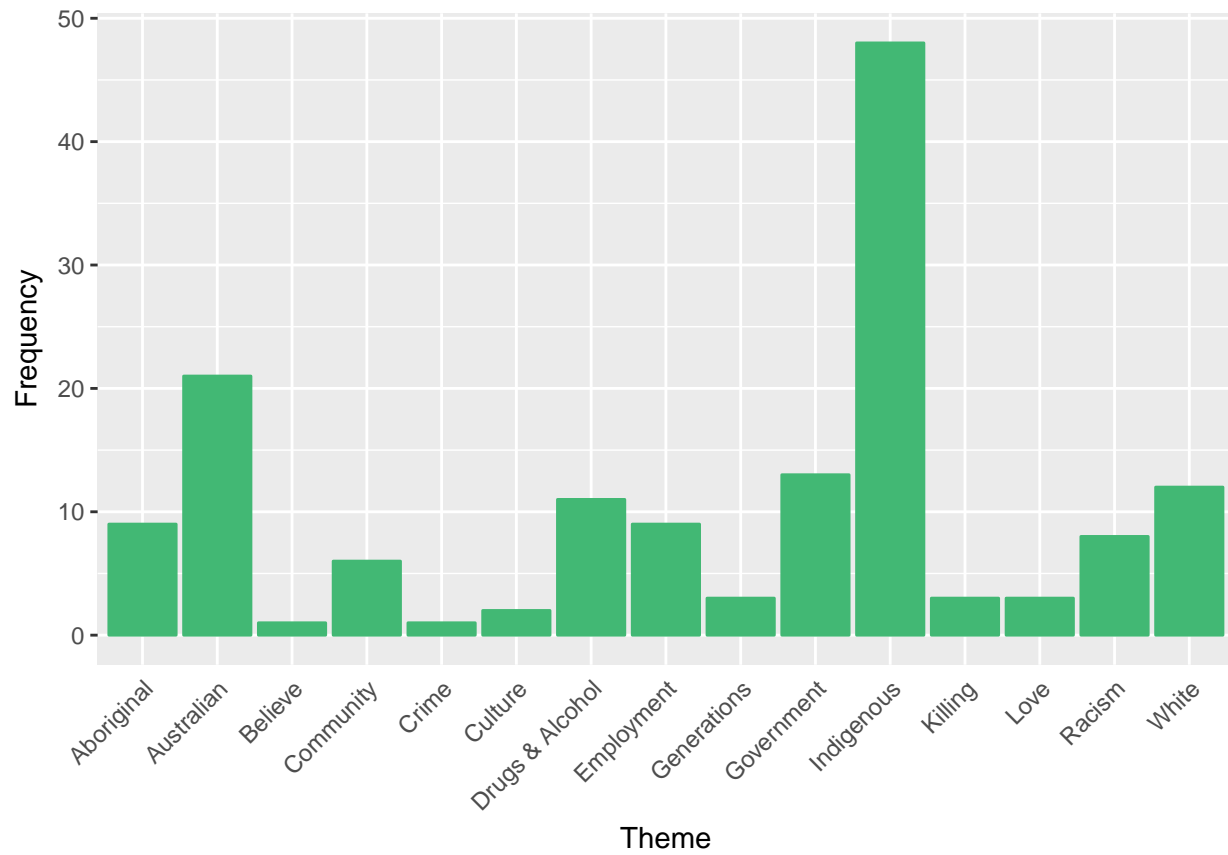

Top Posts During Period 10

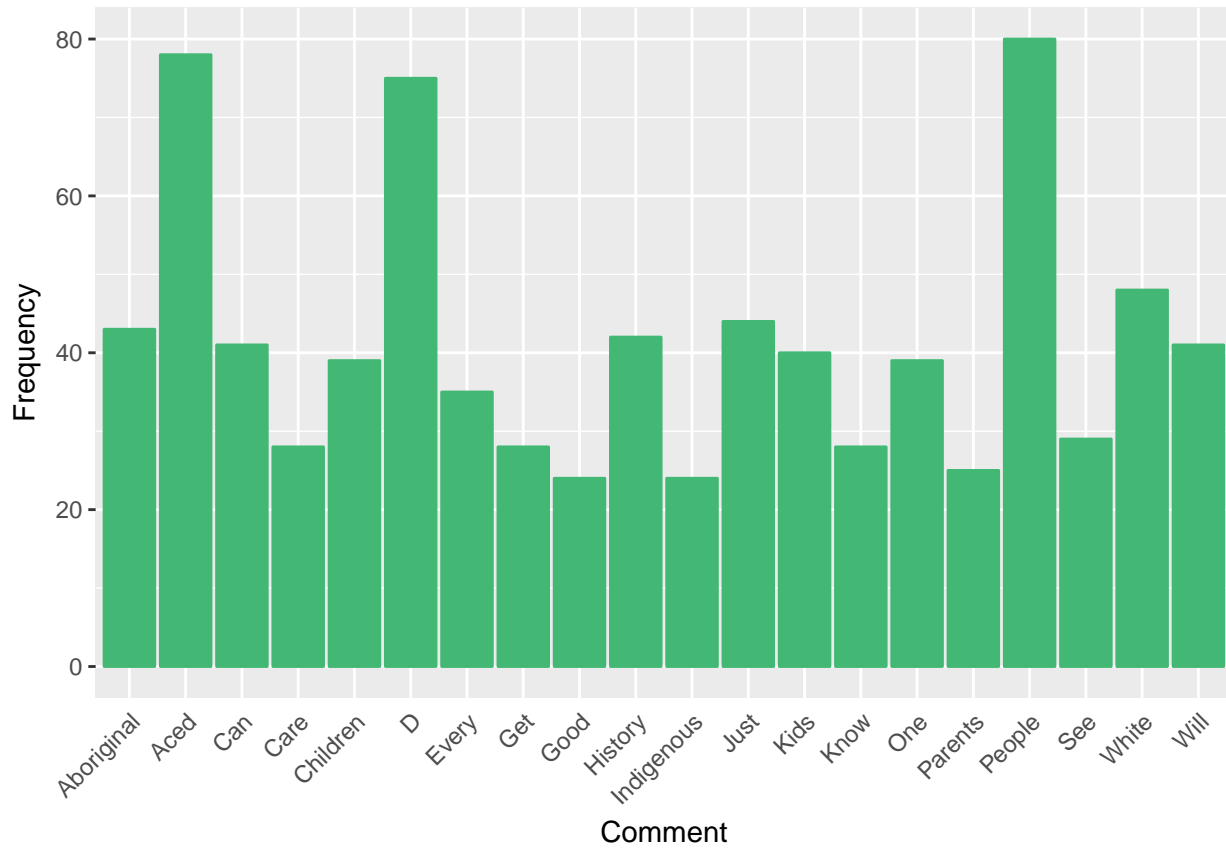

Top Comments During Period 11

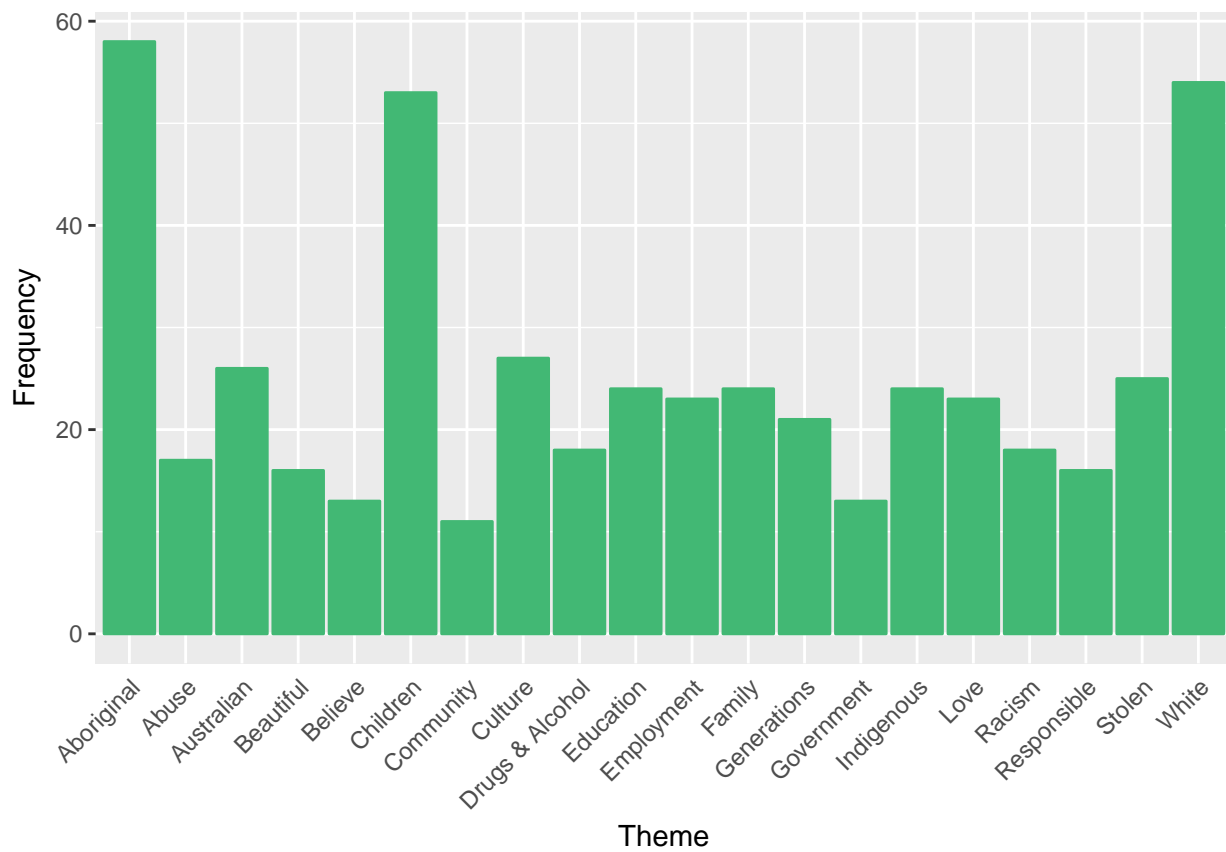

Week Leading Up To Event - Keywords

Week Leading Up To Event - Themes

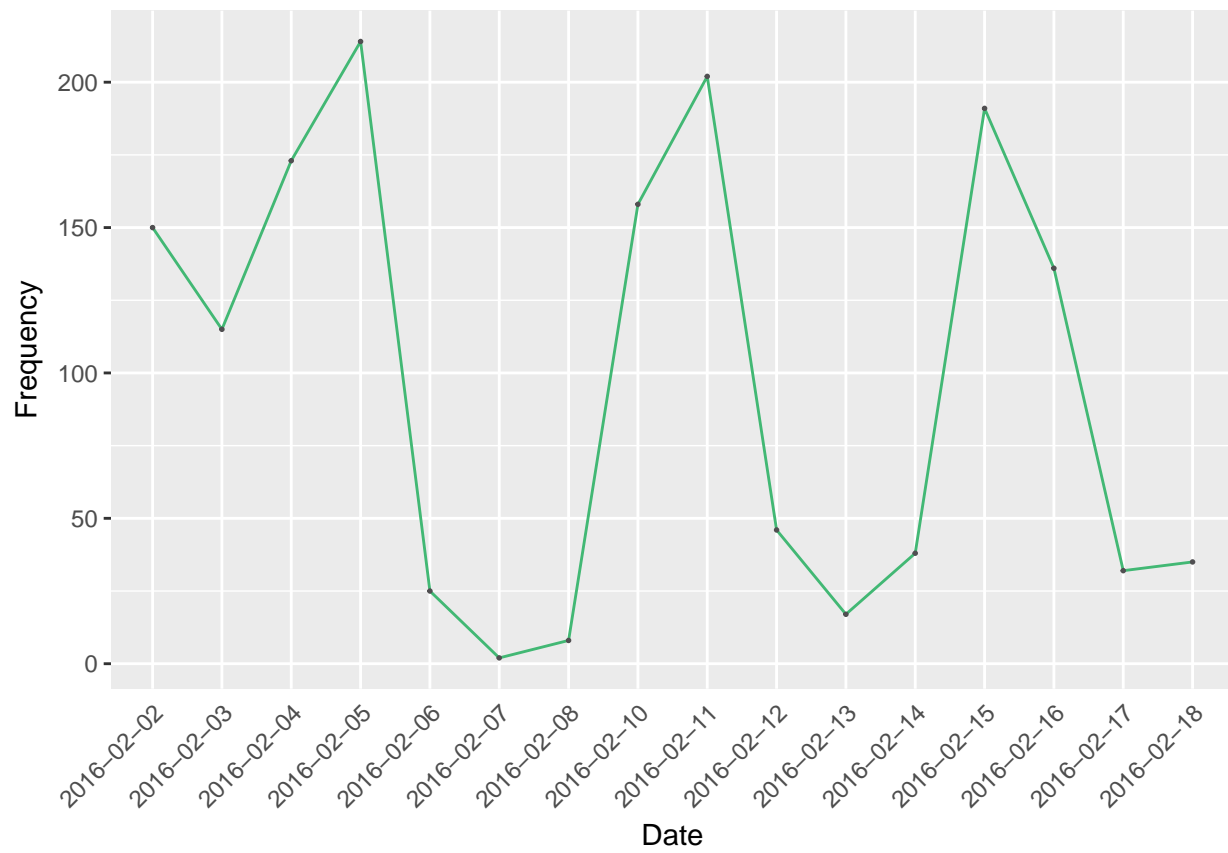

Day Of Event - Keywords

Day Of Event - Themes

Week After Event - Keywords

Week After Event - Themes

Facebook Activity Over Period

Top Comments During Period

Comment	Number of Likes	Comment Date
In the 60's aboriginal activists fought to not be segregated. They wanted to be part of the national life like everyone else. They won the referendum in 1967 and had the white Australia policy repealed. Now they want to be segregated again? wtf? Has the world gone crazy?	245	2016-02-05
But the fact remain, if they were taken care of properly then the wouldn't need outside care. Quite simple really!	169	2016-02-11
An intelligent person in politics who believes in something and has courage, I look forward to seeing this.	142	2016-02-02
I've been refused taxis constantly in Melbourne because of too short a trip... The taxi companies need to train their drivers in general. Why does everything have to be race this, discrimination that. Taxi drivers are cunts simple.	140	2016-02-04
Well said Andrew Bolt, 100% agree. The problem is they love playing both the 'victim' and 'race' cards as an excuse. They will continue to do so because the leftists allow them to.	117	2016-02-10
Every person on earth regardless of race, color, situation is responsible for their own wealth creation, well-being etc... Blaming others only creates negativity and stifles the ability to be happy whatever that means to the individual!	101	2016-02-10
No one needs safe spaces. This is an unfortunate development. Universities need to get back to encouraging vigorous and free debate. "I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it" - which could have been said by Voltaire, but wasn't. His biographer encapsulated his thoughts into this excellent sentence. That is what we should aspire to in our universities and society. Stopping people saying things moves away from democracy and freedom of expression. It is freedom of expression that has made us great and it is the absence of freedom of expression that has made other countries weak. So let's remain great.	87	2016-02-05
yeah here we go again , maybe if ya got off the grog and stopped allowing your kids to run around like animals they would be in your care....and cue the haters for me being racist ... go and have a look yourselves and notice them all drunk outta their minds in the local parks , who's looking after the kids then ??	72	2016-02-11
""They need to have training to recognise that we are the first peoples of this country." In other words, 'we want to be seen as equals, but also want special treatment'. Current indigenous are no more australain then any other person alive today born on this land. I find this story hard to believe. But if it actually happened under the circumstances mentioned in the article then thats truely terrible.	65	2016-02-04

Comment	Number of Likes	Comment Date
A lot more needs to be done by our elders to educate the parents of these poor kids, or we will have another generation of hopelessness. When you have 10 11 year olds on the street at night, surely it must go back to the parents. Take notice of our elders they know a lot more than we give them credit for, they need to step in at the grass roots, the parents	64	2016-02-11